

Lagondaforum: M45 police car

M45 police car

Written by bruffsup at Oct 26, 2017 3:38 pm

What a great cop car the M45 must have been !

Attachments:

LAG COP CAR.jpg (filesize: 24.21 KB)

Re: M45 police car

Written by h14 at Oct 26, 2017 7:35 pm

I've heard of the "long arm of the law", but it looks like long legs must have been necessary, to drive a car standing up!

Re: M45 police car

Written by martin3619 at Jun 03, 2018 10:52 am

Here's another police car, this time a 3 1/2 litre! Photo taken in Sefton Park, Liverpool in 1937, complete with policemen

Attachments:

akfseftonpark.gif (filesize: 86.21 KB)

Re: M45 police car

Written by davidbracey at Jun 03, 2018 12:27 pm

Lucky coppers. Thanks for sharing.

Re: M45 police car

Written by peter weir at Sep 08, 2018 10:02 pm

I'm restoring an M45 saloon from a kit of parts using an ST34 body remaining from another Le Mans replica project.

The chassis I purchased was originally supplied to 'The Engineer - Scotland Yard' and had an ST 24 body with cycle wings, a higher body than the normal M45 body, so the police could sit in the back with their helmets on!

Several cars were supplied throughout late 1934.

Does anyone have a photograph of such a car for my historical records.

Thanks

Peter

Re: M45 police car

Written by Mark at Sep 09, 2018 8:53 pm

Hi Peter

I believe the Metropolitan Police have a historical police car archive.

A quick google search brought up the following

<https://www.metpolicehistory.co.uk/transport-and-vehicles.html>

Hope you find what your after

Best Regards

Mark