

Lagondaforum: Smiths Heater Unit

Smiths Heater Unit

Written by randall977 at Jul 11, 2012 11:03 pm

Repaired the heater unit at the weekend, new name plate arrived today, always a pleasure to fit these small finishing touches...which no-one will ever see!

In the last image you can see how the car was made to be either left or right-hand-drive, both sides of the car are identical and allow for a steering column on either side with no structural alteration required.

Re: Smiths Heater Unit

Written by SRD at Jul 12, 2012 9:00 pm

A very nice job, up to your usual high standard of course, and I especially like the attention to detail with the Smiths name plate. Any chance for a close up of this please ?

Also a better view showing the dual possibility left or right hand steering wheel column placement. That would be a great one for the book and clearly shows the car was made for both LHD and RHD markets.
