

Lagondaforum: Delco Remy Distributor - removing cap

Delco Remy Distributor - removing cap

Written by alistair at Apr 19, 2008 6:51 pm

My V12 saloon has Delco Remy distributors and I would like to check and clean the contact points. However when I undo the metal side clips, the distributor cap does not pop off to reveal the points - what else holding it on? I can see plenty of things to fiddle with, but thought I would appeal to the wisdom of the forum before risking damage.

Re: Delco Remy Distributor - removing cap

Written by Peter S30 at Apr 19, 2008 7:08 pm

Dear Alistair,

the Delco in my V12 are only hold by the 2 clips. Sometimes you have to give it a slight knock with your hand to get it off because it is sticking a bit.

Re: Delco Remy Distributor - removing cap

Written by alistair at Apr 20, 2008 8:36 am

Thanks - that is what I thought but it did not move with a little pressure. Will do what you recommend.

Re: Delco Remy Distributor - removing cap

Written by alistair at Apr 21, 2008 5:00 pm

It took a very firm tap to release it - more pressure than I would have applied without your advice - thanks.
