

Lagondaforum: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

Written by SRD at May 02, 2016 9:34 am

Up for sale at this years AML auction with Bonham's in May, is another post war Lagonda of note, this car loaned to Fangio for the 1955 and 1956 seasons.

<http://www.bonhams.com/auctions/23592/lot/207>

Re: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

Written by TVJL at May 02, 2016 11:32 am

Well, I think it's a very nice prospect that should do well in the auction. :-) It looks a lot like my own project car, though in better condition.

Re: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

Written by SRD at May 03, 2016 8:34 am

Rare and desirable, by far the nicest of the 1950's DB-Lagondas in terms of styling.

Re: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

Written by TVJL at May 03, 2016 8:53 am

I'd quarrel with 'by far'. We've been this way before, Simon. 🤔

First, they are all lovely IMO. Secondly, the 2 door coupes - especially the 2.6 Brooklands of Bond Street cars - are particularly desirable, I think, and run a pretty close second to the 3 litre DHCs. Thirdly, the Mk2 4 door saloon is a wonderful thing and, I would argue, nearly as desirably as the DHC. Finally, I would question whether the 2.6 DHC is so very far behind the 3 litre version in terms of desirability?

Just my two penneth, you understand.

Tim

Re: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

Written by SRD at May 03, 2016 9:43 am

Perhaps I am just more partial to the 3.0 litre cars, all are wonderful things, and yes fully agree the 2-door Coupes come close indeed. The 4-door saloons are indeed wonderful, but so very rare, thankfully there are a few owners who bought these as complete cars when they could.

To my eye the 2.6 dhc has dated a little too much, but again a personal view, in a two tone paint scheme they can look very impressive.

Back to the car in the auction.

Click on the e-catalogue and Bonham's have done a much better job than we thought on lot 207, publicity picture and period adverts included..

Re: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

Written by TVJL at May 03, 2016 10:32 am

Not yet the haven't, Simon. 🤔

Re: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

Written by SRD at May 03, 2016 4:33 pm

Tim hi,

Lagondaforum: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

I see their cataloguer has not fully updated the standard "browse through" catalogue yet. Full text now appears, but extra pictures not added yet ...

If you click on the "view e-catalogue" link to the rhs, this will take you to the full multi-page catalogue proper, where the description and pictures are complete.

Re: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

Written by TVJL at May 03, 2016 7:00 pm

Thank you Simon. Who knew (not I) that the e-catalogue was an additional item to to the online catalogue. Presumably, the e-catalogue is also something other than an electronic version of the hard copy to be published shortly, since it has so many more pages the result of doing otherwise would be an unfeasibly large tome. Therefore, what one ends up are three different versions of catalogue for the same auction. Blimey!

Re: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

Written by SRD at May 03, 2016 9:37 pm

Tim S. explained this e-catalogue was the same as the hard covered catalogue winging its way in the post to us sometime soon..,

I was in the same boat as you until enlightened by Bonham's of how their system worked, far to complicated for me.

Re: ex. Fangio 3.0 Lagonda dhc

Written by SRD at May 20, 2016 9:13 am

See Classic Car Weekly page 16
