Are you talking about different parts etc.? Bill knows about the M45 engine advertised in The Automobile. David refers (I think) to an M45 block, head, sump and crank that were advertised on eBay relatively recently. I think I saw both. Are they one and the same? I know that RC was aware of the latter and planning to buy if the price is right. Why aren't they usable Colin? IIRC, there was slight damage to the block and sump but that looked repairable (and worth it) at least to my relatively uninitiated eye?

Hi Bill,

Give me a call, I can supply all parts that you need.

Best regards,

Julian
