The Lagonda Club spares operation has a number of drop arms on the shelf and it's worth asking Robin what is there.

Just noticed this forum.

David Hine has fitted electric power steering to his M45 saloon.

Requires the column cut, but is fitted under the dashboard and can't be seen unless you're lying on the floor. Requires the shock absorber adjusters to be moved.

The advantage is finger light steering for parking and can be switched off, or power reduced when on the move.

I also suffer from arthritis and am considering this modification to allow me to continue to enjoy my car.

I think the firm was EZ Engineering.
