LR111 up for auction

Written by David at Apr 05, 2021 7:48 pm

LR/111/R is for sale at auction, est at 120 to 160. An original RHD manual, rebuilt by Goldsmith and Young about 20+ years ago, not used much since but with some recommissioning recently. The yellow leather is certainly unique!

Hi Simon, I hope all is well with you. 158ELT is up at Anglia Car Auctions classic sale 1-2 May at King's Lynn. No lot number yet.

Time to get mine out of the garage. How are your cars?

Best wishes

David

A strange place to sell such a rare car and in seemingly very nice condition.

MOT history shows lots of regular use over the last ten years.

Currently on SORN

I finally clicked on the interior colour, not one I could live with.

Did you notice Automobile this month issue, page 22, Brightwells have LR151 re-entered by our mutual friend for their May auction?

I am unsure why it isn't placed in the hands of a good dealer who will get the correct market price, whatever that may be at the moment!

Just checked on Anglia car Auctions website, the car is unsold.

Browsing through the online catalogue, there are currently a large number of unsold cars.

Updated their site again it seems, an excellent result with premium and VAT, grand total of £167,400.

A decent price given the market place and the strange venue to place the car at
