Lagondaforum: Spare wheel mounting

Spare wheel mounting
Written by h14 at Sep 12, 2011 9:55 am

Unfortunately mine has gone missing. Being a 1940 car, the mounting is different to that on earlier V12s & LG6s. Those have a circular steel plate welded to the stay which bolts to the scuttle.

My one has a conical shaped aluminium casting (I think held on by a pinch-bolt) where the stay goes through the spare wheel cover. A flat steel plate is screwed to that, & that retains a captive nut. The hand-wheel, washer & conical retainer that fits the actual wheel centre I would imagine are all similar to those on the earlier models.

Please help if you can! Hoping to go to the AGM so could collect there.

Re: Spare wheel mounting
Written by bill at Sep 14, 2011 6:07 pm

Hello,
May be able to help although it may be the wrong type !
I saw what I think was a spare wheel mounting for the V12 at Beaulieu last weekend. I think it was on Mel Cranmer's stand. Underneath the table!
Try him.
Best of luck !
Bill

Re: Spare wheel mounting
Written by h14 at Sep 15, 2011 12:22 pm

Hi Bill,

Many thanks, but already spoken to Mel as he was working on my car when this went missing.

Laurence

Re: Spare wheel mounting
Written by h14 at Jul 07, 2020 10:37 am

I still need this, hopefully someone has one going spare, or can loan me one (against a deposit) so that I can have it copied. I can lend a fully restored Sanction 1 mounting in return, if that helps.

Please help!

Laurence

Re: Spare wheel mounting
Written by Rich5ltr at Jul 08, 2020 8:05 pm

Have you also asked on the Lagonda Owners Group on Facebook? https://www.facebook.com/groups/1732053427018573/

Re: Spare wheel mounting
Written by h14 at Jul 09, 2020 10:38 am

Hi Richard,
Just joined, will do.
Laurence