Oh, agreed. It's just that this is a photograph of the radio in Simon's car.

I had put my radio away in box and forgotten about it to be honest. Once I started undoing the dash and lower access panels, and checking / mapping the loom, against that, another very kind Rapide owner supplied from the DB4 work-shop manual.

There are a quite few subtle differences, even on something as straightforward as the ignition relay.

I have pulled the radio out from storage and thanks for this now "rather old picture of my radio" - Spot on Tim, the Lagonda logo is clearly visible on my radio. Good clear picture, don't know how you got that, in the very poor light in that garage, well done, will add it my file, thank you !

I will take the top and front off and try and get a good picture or two, for those who would like to copy this lagonda logo, and will also supply dimensions as well.
