Any chance of an up-date on this, gentlemen?

reevsy sold his car some time ago but he has sent me this image of the starting handle before. And I found that the starting handle of an MGA fits (it is a bit to short so only allows half turns and it does not have the rubber stopper in the middle but it works for turning the engine for ignition timing etc.).

I have no information about toolkits

Can anyone else help further with this query? In an ideal world, some photographs of the tools in situ in the boot of the 3 litre Lagonda would be wonderful. I have currently only the Jackall handle, the starting handle, and the drain plug spanner (replica).
