

Lagondaforum: Chateau Impney Hill Climb

Chateau Impney Hill Climb

Written by elverc117 at Jun 16, 2015 4:10 pm

Is anyone going to the Chateau Impney Hill Climb on 11th and 12th July in Droitwich? Just been on the website (www.chateauimpneyhillclimb.com) and looks like a really good weekend.

Apparently it's the first in over 50 years but they've updated the course so it's longer and more difficult than the old one. The full class list is up online and it's really impressive – 10 ERAs, the Beast of Turin, the Scarab, Aston Martins, D-Type Jags, and a Lagonda Eccles Rapier.

There's an early bird ticket offer and kids go free.

The launch video is pretty cool: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-e36kqGE4A0>

Re: Chateau Impney Hill Climb

Written by Rich5ltr at Jul 02, 2019 6:57 pm

I thought I'd raise this event again as it is in 2 week's time and there will probably be some Lagonda action on the hill. I will be there on Sunday 14th. Anyone else going?

<https://www.chateauimpneyhillclimb.com/>
